This article is interesting and comprehensive, but some writing needs to be fixed. The author presents data in a complete and easy-to-understand manner, so this article will describe the transformation of slum locations into interesting tourist attractions based on various factors analysed by the author.

The abstract section should include keywords.

It is best to highlight the urgency of the research and the gap with previous research in the introduction.

In the writing of citations, some are still not in accordance with the numbering format, so they still need to be fixed. In addition, some still need to be added to support a more comprehensive discussion.

The conclusion section should be more concise, with recommendations for the future.

For references, it is better to check again between what is cited and the data in the references.
