This is an interesting paper on digital citizenship and highlights some important theories and awareness of it, especially in the case of this particular university. However, try to consider some of the points below;

1. proofread for language accuracy, as the paper throughout contains spelling, sentence structure and grammatical problems in places.
2. the study can be presented in the table/ bar chart format for the reader to easily comprehend the long list of questions asked and their responses.
3. define digital citizenship in the initial part of the paper.
