Dear authors,

First, congratulations on your efforts towards research. Some notes for improvement: 1) The introduction is superficial and very simple. It is necessary to carry out a larger and better review of the literature, pointing out a research problem and research hypotheses. 2. In the method, there is a need to describe the data collection instruments, scales, how many questions the interview has. 3. Study design needs to be revised. There is no "qualitative correlational design" 4. It is necessary to review the objectives and analyzes of the study carried out. For example, group comparison statistics are presented when this is not intended. 5. The discussion is superficial, restricted to the restatement of the results and with little dialogue with the available literature.
