The article is acceptable because these kinds of articles are very useful to show how university youth feel about the environment, in many countries the environment is not taken seriously and a lot of waste is thrown away and pollutes the environment.

According to the article, the recommendations for the incorporation of environmental education must be a major part of the academic curriculum in institutions of higher learning, to address the challenges of waste management.

The research has been done and is acceptable but it was better if they studied some other factors, besides showing which type of solid waste they mean.
