Thank you for choosing me to review the article, this comments are for improving the article;

introduction is very short, it,s better the problem describe more.

The number of samples for the quantitative part should be specified. Although the same focus group samples were used and it is correct, more samples are needed for quantitative results.

for result, it,s better that describe similarities and differences. This means that the similarities are in the quantitative and qualitative part of the results of the study, and reporting the differences leads to adding to the results that were not reported in this study.

conclusion need to describe more.

references are old, please be updated.
