This position paper summarizes in a very didactic way all the issues to consider about medication-related osteonecrosis of the jaws. The manuscript brings you up to date on the available scientific evidence and is written in a user-friendly manner. The proposals on the definition, classification and treatment of MRONJ are well justified. Ideally, a worldwide consensus on this topic would be reached so that all clinicians/researchers would perform staging in the same way. We will have to wait to see the possible benefits of the proposal made. I congratulate you for the work done.
