The central idea of assessing the motivations and challenges of women entrepreneurs appears interesting, however the paper lacked scientific rigor in the approaches adopted to answer the central questions. For instance, the author doesn't cite the work from any literature referred. Further, the semi-structured questions used in the survey, it is not clear if the author developed it or adapted from literature. If in case of the former, was it tested (pre-test in the field) and checked for internal consistencies? These aspects needs to be clearly discussed in the paper.
