

Review of: "Climate Change and Sustainability: A Comparative Case Study"

Rajaratnam Tryphena¹

¹ Anna University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The idea of comparing Sweden and India's position with regard to sustainability is appreciable. The article is generic in data, using secondary sources. One can build on the study by analysing factors that motivate Scandinavian countries to be sustainable, that which can be implemented in a large country such as India. The language in the article is clear and lucid. Variables mentioned under each case study is appropriate.