The review manuscript entitled "Comprehensive Overview on Pharmacological and Therapeutic Insights of Solanum nigrum Linn" is reviewed. The following observations were noted:

1. The phytochemistry and pharmacology of Solanum nigrum have already been well-reviewed by other authors and published; what is the novelty of this study? It's just a compilation of work. I think this topic has already been saturated.
2. The author could focus on discussing the roles of different active ingredients individually in combating a single disease like cancer, neuro, cardio, inflammatory diseases, etc, as per their expertise. The underlying mechanisms should be discussed thoroughly.
3. A lot of other errors are also observed in this manuscript:-(a)typographical and punctuation errors throughout the manuscript.(b)"anti-inflammatory" instead of "antiinflammatory." (c)Consistency in the expression of units throughout the manuscript.(d) References uniformity or as per journal format
