

Review of: "Students' perceptions of e-participation in social media, citizen mobilisation and engagement: Evidence from Papua New Guinea, India, and Zimbabwe"

Kwaku Anhwere Barfi¹

¹ University of Cape Coast

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The second and third sentence in paragraph one needs a supporting reference or citation.
2. Some of the sentences are not completed, for instance, 'It is clear that social media has influenced world politics; for instance, during the 2011 Arab uprisings, there were more students than usual'.
3. The problem statement or research gap is not clear.
4. Authors definition on engagement using World Bank (2023) definition is not clear.
5. In the methodology part, authors indicated using mixed method, but in the findings and discussion, there is no statement that support this. No qualitative analysis was done in this study.
6. Authors indicated that they used 0.04 confidence interval level, they should explain and why not 0.05 confidence level.