

Review of: "[Review Article] Excessive Aluminum in Soil"

Lucrezia Laccetti¹

¹ University of Naples Federico II

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Though the manuscript deals with an interesting topic, it needs to be improved in the English language and in clarity since some statements seem too vague and do not follow a logical flow.

Specifically, I have the following concerns:

1. The article lacks a clear organization of the paragraphs, i.e., title, abstract, keywords, introduction, materials and methods, results and discussion, conclusion, references.
2. A deeper review of the literature is highly suggested, as well as the inclusion of more recent studies. Given the high number of studies on the topic, the number of references is definitely too low, and the cited literature is outdated.
3. I suggest improving the clarity in the Introduction section and emphasizing the contribution of your work compared to existing literature. Since the authors deal with a broad and well-studied topic, it is crucial to highlight the significance of their contribution.
4. All figures should be cited and discussed in the manuscript.