Review of: "[Review] Effective Strategies for Combating the Crime of Gambling in Batam City"

Etin Indrayani

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall, the article provides a good overview of gambling crimes in Batam City. However, there are some areas where it could be improved. Firstly, the article could benefit from more detailed information about the methodology used in the research. Secondly, it would be helpful to include more specific examples of efforts to overcome gambling crimes in Batam City. Finally, the article could be enhanced by providing more context about the broader issue of gambling crimes in Indonesia and how it relates to the situation in Batam City.

To improve the quality of the article, I suggest adding more details about the methodology used in the research, providing specific examples of efforts being made to overcome gambling crimes in Batam City, and providing more context about the broader issue of gambling crimes in Indonesia.

To enhance the quality of the article, the introduction should be more engaging and provide a clear thesis statement or research objective. It should also provide background information on the significance of the topic and its relevance to the readers.

The article would benefit from a literature review section summarizing existing research on the relationship between technology and gambling crimes. This would help contextualize the study and demonstrate the gap that the current research aims to fill.

The article briefly mentions the research methodology but lacks sufficient detail. Providing more information on the data collection process, sample selection, and data analysis techniques would be helpful. The rationale for choosing a qualitative descriptive method with a sociological juridical approach should also be explained.

The article provides no specific findings or analysis related to the study. It would be valuable to present and discuss the key findings derived from the research, along with supporting evidence or examples. The article lacks a comprehensive discussion section where the findings are interpreted and related to existing literature. This section should also explore the research implications and suggest potential strategies to address the spread of gambling in Batam City.

The conclusion should summarize the study's main findings and restate the implications and potential recommendations for addressing the issue of gambling crimes. It should provide a sense of closure and encourage further research or actions. Finally, it is essential to ensure that the ideas are expressed clearly and coherently throughout the article by improving clarity, sentence structure, and grammar.

More details, to improve the quality of the article, it is recommended to follow these steps:

- Write an engaging introduction that provides background information on the topic, its significance, and relevance to readers.
- Include a literature review section summarizing existing research on technology and gambling crimes.
- Provide more details about the research methodology, including the data collection process, sample selection, data analysis techniques, and rationale for choosing a qualitative descriptive method with a sociological juridical approach.
- Present specific findings derived from research along with supporting evidence or examples. Include a comprehensive discussion section that interprets findings in relation to existing literature, explores research implications, and suggests potential strategies to address gambling crimes in Batam City.
- Write a conclusion summarizing the main findings, restating implications and potential recommendations for addressing gambling crimes in Batam City, providing closure, and encouraging further research or actions.
- Ensure clarity, sentence structure, and grammar are improved throughout the article.
  By following these suggestions, I hope the article can be enhanced to provide a more comprehensive and informative study on criminological aspects of gambling in Batam City, thereby improving its overall quality. How can the data collection process and sample selection be improved to enhance the study's validity? What potential strategies could be suggested in the discussion section to address the spread of gambling in Batam City?