

Review of: "Interpreting the loss functions of Artificial neural networks in cancer research"

Pitoyo Hartono¹

¹ Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This article raises an interesting topic in the importance of loss function for training neural networks. However, it does not offer new technical insights as what were written is a generally known facts.

The author needs to at least demonstrate the learning characteristics of a particular model of neural network that is trained with various loss function regarding cancer data. Without the simulation experiments and their analysis it is difficult to accept this paper as a published scientific manuscript.