

Review of: "The Role of Women's Business Performance in Promoting Sustainable Development"

Hebah Shalhoob¹

¹ King Abdul Aziz University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Dear Author,

Thank you for submitting your manuscript for review. Upon evaluation, there are several points that require attention to strengthen the overall quality and credibility of your research. Please see below for specific comments and suggestions:

The article "The Role of Women's Business Performance in Promoting Sustainable Development" is interesting.

Introduction: In order to enhance the introduction, please consider addressing the following points: Mention the limitations or potential contributions of the research. Provide an indication of the key findings. Outline the structure of the paper.

Explicitly state the specific research gap your study addresses.

Literature Review: Your literature review would benefit from a more thorough engagement with the existing literature on the topic and a critical analysis of the studies you've included. Please consider revising this section to: Include more recent and relevant sources. Incorporate a broader range of studies to support arguments. Provide a critical analysis of the existing literature, identifying gaps, contradictions, or areas for further investigation.

Methodology: This section requires further clarification and elaboration in several areas: The analyses done were very simple and basic. Provide more detail on the data collection and preparation process.

Discussion and Conclusion: This section would be strengthened by a more comprehensive discussion on the practical implications of your findings.

In addition, please pay more attention to formatting the paper and re-check on the spelling.

Best wishes,