

Review of: "A Perspective for Economic and Social Unfoldings of AI"

Flavio Boccia¹

¹ Parthenope University of Naples

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In my opinion, the paper is interesting, even if not original at all. So, it can be a good reference point for similar studies to be conducted in other countries. A more adequate introduction and literature review could justify the research.

Introduction presents properly the aim of the study, yet the research questions to be addressed are not clearly exposed and, above all, justified by the literature. As a matter of fact, the author/s must include accurate and recent references to support the hypotheses and the study. So, strongly I suggest to consider a more recent and innovative papers on the topic and important in the international context (I strongly suggest Doi 10.3390/su14020867). Research design and methodology could be appropriate, yet different analyses have been conducted which enrich the empirical analysis (so again, the authors must consider further literature, please the author/s consider Doi 10.1002/csr.1873): I recommend the author/s to better specify the goodness of the specific quantitative method to support the conceptual model. And moreover, why is the used methodology better than other important ones? And besides, are the author/s sure that the sample is representative of the population? Especially interesting is the analyses conducted, but I can say also the results could be more appropriate and clear; moreover, discussion section is relevant and conclusions must resume properly the topic address and the implications for several players. So, really what does the paper add to previous researches? The quality of communication is good and clear enough.