

Review of: "Online learning during the COVID-19 pandemic, lessons learned and what's next?"

Dr. Chaudhry Kashif Mahmood¹

¹ Imam Abdulrahman Bin Faisal University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. Re-write the abstract part: Write down the results of the research paper and its implications for HEC, Students and decision makers.
2. Introduction part is well written however Author should separately deal with the literature review and must incorporate some theories related to LMS or Technology use in teaching and learning.
3. Research Methodology for underpinning research is completely missing and should be provided.
4. Finding part must be clear based on the gap identified in the Introduction part. There are numerous objectives and suggestions need to be treated separately in finding parts.
5. Conclusion must be aligned with your findings
6. Overall Review: Although there are numerous research available on the Covid-19 where the researchers put their efforts to measure every aspect of circumstances in different dimensions however, this article may be consider after revising the above points.