The application of aquaponics in home farming is efficiently presented in this paper, which is highly commendable. I do want to draw attention to a couple of points in the paper, though.

1. Include the citation of the listed and other relevant references in the body of the paper.
2. The abstract needs to be reframed.
3. This write-up lacks proper organization.
4. The paper fails to evaluate the shortcomings of current approaches and compare the practical applications of different methodologies.
