

Review of: "A Systematic Review of Antibiotic Use in Humans in Nigeria and Its Potential Contribution to Rising Antimicrobial Resistance"

Oana Mărgărita Ghimpețeanu

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The subject of the paper entitled A Systematic Review of Antibiotic Use in Humans in Nigeria and Its Potential Contribution to Rising Antimicrobial Resistance is up to date in the field of antimicrobial resistance. The number of studied papers is enough to create an image of the use of antimicrobial drugs in Nigeria. The authors used a lot of papers for the preliminary study and reduced them to the most relevant for the topic of the article. I think the methodology that was used is adequate for this type of article. I consider that the study is relevant for a review and can be published in this form.