This manuscript was well-written and designed however some issues should be addressed before acceptance:

- i. The authors should add articles from 2007-2022 (recent advances);
- ii. The conclusion section should be improved reporting details about dosage used and the main results reported in the manuscript.
- iii. Discussion section: The authors should create a table reporting the following information: country, year, natural plant-based product applied, dosage, side effects, mains results/conclusion. This table will help the readers.
