This article is interesting but could be improved

1-Introduction: the aim and the peculiarities of the study must be clearly evoked

2-Methodology:

-How could 10 cases out of 51,342 patients give 0.01% instead of 0.02%?

-Have the ethical considerations been taken into account in this study?

3-Results:

-Why didn't the author evoke the HIV status of the patients?

-For patient 5, the therapeutical history after thyroidectomy was occulted. There is certainly replacement therapy.
