Dear Authors,

It was a pleasure reading your article. The topic is important to all of us working in education, since students are more and more distracted in the learning environment. Technology plays a significant role in keeping their attention span short and in keeping their attention away from learning/listening. Therefore, your research has potential. I have a few suggestions on how to better your paper.

1. In the abstract, you mention an "online learning" environment, but from your paper, I understand that it is a controlled environment, which means a classroom. A clarification would be great.
2. There is a paragraph where you use a quote from the Literature Review. When quotes are used, we need to gently introduce the quote, and then we need to comment on it. Just putting a quote on its own is not the best idea. It gives the impression that we are just copy/pasting material. You need to interact with the quote. Imagine you are having a discussion with the person whom you are quoting.
3. I would love to see more research used in your paper. You have many paragraphs without sources. Try to use more material; or, in other words, try to involve as many people as possible in your interesting discussion.

I hope my comments have been helpful. Best of luck with your research.
