

Review of: "Curriculum Implementation with a Plan: An Exploratory Analysis of Pre-service Teachers' Application of Gagne's Nine Events of Instruction"

Tuti Suartini¹

¹ Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia

Potential competing interests: potential competing interests to declare.

This research is very interesting as it discusses the efforts of teacher-centred learning to be transformed into a student-centred curriculum. In discussion, the findings indicate potential improvements in teacher education programs where strategies can be adapted to better align with evidence-based and student-centered pedagogy. Explain the results of the data analysis to demonstrate the conclusion that addressing these gaps, teacher training programs can equip educators with better knowledge and skills needed to create an interesting, effective, and inclusive learning environment; it needs further explanation according to Gagne's model and an explanation of the problems in the curriculum in Ghana, including reasons from research in Ghana itself, so that changes are needed.