

Review of: "Examining Sustainable Survival Tactics for Small-Scale Bakeries: A Case Study in Lagos State"

Wali Muhammad Khoso

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

After reviewing the paper "Examining Sustainable Survival Tactics for Small-Scale Bakeries: A Case Study in Lagos State," here are some constructive feedback points:

Clarity and Structure:

- Enhance transitions between sections, particularly between the literature review and method, to improve narrative flow.
- Consider adding subheadings in the results section to clarify the different analysis points.

Literature Review:

- Integrate more recent publications to strengthen the argument and provide a more comprehensive background.
- For comparative analysis, explore additional sources that discuss similar challenges in different industries or regions.

Research Methodology:

- Include more details about the sample selection process and the statistical methods used in data analysis.
- Explain why this methodology is suitable for this particular study.

Relevance and Originality:

- Update the literature review to include studies from the past two years to ensure the research remains current.
- Emphasize the unique aspects of the study in the introduction to highlight its originality.

Findings and Interpretation:

- Expand on how the findings relate to larger economic trends in Nigeria.
- Provide a more detailed discussion of the implications of these findings for policy-making.

Practical Implications:

- Include real-life examples or case studies of bakeries successfully implementing similar tactics.
- Suggest specific strategies for adaptation to policy changes.