The review constitutes a very nice addition to the scientific community. Some changes suggested include:

- The ending of the abstract is too generic and could use some more insight on the benefits and stakeholders of this research
- The authors could include more statistical data in the introduction regarding waste management around the world in order to emphasize the issue and novelty linked with their research
- The authors should include more recent citations that are heavily available regarding matters of environmental education and waste management
- The methodology of the article is very carefully crafted and beautifully presented
- The discussion section could use a little bit more work regarding the authors' findings and linking them to existing literature, in order to draw noteworthy conclusions
