

Review of: "Coronavirus COVID-19: A Short Review on the Psychological Effects of Coronavirus, How It Disturbs Social Life, Its Mechanism to Affect the Central Nervous System, Possible Modes of Transmission, and the Smart Lockdown Policy of Pakistan"

Josefina C. Santana¹

¹ Universidad Panamericana

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article covers a lot of ground regarding the COVID 19 pandemic, especially in the context of Pakistan, including the psychological effects, the mechanism of transmission and public policies taken to deal with it. I suggest narrowing the focus to cover one of these topics and delving deeper into it. For example, the topic of psychological effects is barely mentioned. More time is devoted to transmission methods, but some of the information -animal to human transmission, for instance- has not been proven. I suggest a more complete review of the literature to better ground the paper. The abstract needs to be structured better. It should be shorter and should include the aims of the paper, as well as the findings.