

Review of: "Assessment of soil erosion in the Cesar watershed, an initial step toward the restoration of the Cesar River"

Markos Mathewos¹

¹ Hawassa University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

the structure of the manuscript is good, readable and gives good result for the scientific community, however the following comments should be addressed in the first page other authors name and affiliations were missed, Please include your major findings here, for example how much soil rate achieved through the model in the abstract, What is the basic of selecting your model compared with others? Please include the justification, model performance not discussed