The topic is interesting and the language is clear and understandable. However, I would highly suggest the author to work on the structure of the manuscript to improve the cohesion of the paper as I believe the manuscript is part of a thesis as the author indicated in introduction – “Finally, I outline the chapters of the thesis”. A better structure would include various sections like:

Introduction – Introduction to the topic, research background, aim of study

Literature review – underpinning theories/conceptual framework

Methodology – Research design, population & sample, data collection & data analysis

Results & discussion – Results from interview and discussion on emerging themes

Conclusion – Conclusion, implications and future research
