

Review of: "The Ancient Indian Knowledge System and the Medical Sciences"

Nurhuda Manshoor¹

¹ Universiti Teknologi Mara

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The title is broad, and the topic is very general on ancient Indian medicines. The discussion on 'knowledge system' is unclear and the relationship with medical sciences is not an apparent correspondence. The article is not written as a review, as it lacks critical appraisal. This is a compilation of information retrieved from reported documents. The article needs to incorporate the method of literature mining, the search keywords, and the selected databases, and test the exhaustiveness. The information needs systematic flow and an insightful review of the literature.