This manuscript is about "Ancient Houses in Ben Tre City". This manuscript has been well written; however, some suggestions must be taken into account to enhance its quality. The topic is interesting; however, the article needs to be improved so that people within the field can understand and replicate its studies. In its current state, I do not recommend publication. I have written some recommendations below for the authors. After implementing the suggestions exhaustively, I think you could consider publishing it.

Firstly, there are too many keywords. Please remove some of them and keep the most important ones linked to the title of the manuscript. Secondly, please, you must highlight clearly the method that you used to achieve your research and to collect data in the field.
