

Review of: "[Review Article] Excessive Aluminum in Soil"

Krittika Kaewchumnong<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Prince of Songkla University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This review is about the effects of aluminum accumulation in soil, assessment methods, and remediation strategies. It gives a general overview of aluminum toxicity. From the abstract, I feel that the effect of excessive aluminum on human health is still lacking in the manuscript. Please use "Al" or "aluminum" consistently throughout the manuscript. Figures should also be mentioned in the text. Is this manuscript generated by AI? Some examples and phrases are used more than once. Please also rearrange some sentences not to use the phrase "the search results." Citations in the text should not include initials of first and middle names, and the reference list should be ordered alphabetically. The reference format should conform to the journal. For example, publication titles should begin with a capital letter only for the first word, some references lack authors or journal names, and genus names must be in italics. I feel that this manuscript should be improved before publication.