

Review of: "Learning Behaviors and Academic Performance: A Comparative Study"

Tianrui Yang¹

¹ Houston Methodist Hospital

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is definitely a relevant topic. However, this is not really a novel concept that active learners tend to perform better. I think instead of listing out each result for each student, some sort of condensed version in a table format would improve the readability of the article. In addition, although the authors are intentional about being inclusive in the sample, there seems to be a very small sample size included, which limit the generalizability of this study. Overall, I think the article is well written and organized. However, the design of the study and the presentation of the result of the study can be improved.