

Review of: "Ancient DNA Clarifies the Identity and Geographic Origin of the Holotype of the Genus Ctenomys"

Yun-Chun Li<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Independent researcher

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is undoubtedly a very interesting study. Extracting biological information from ancient specimens has significant application value for the future establishment of species DNA information databases. However, I have one suggestion regarding this process:

Synonyms for the same species should be treated carefully. If possible, new samples that meet the criteria could be used to assist in verification.