

Review of: "Meanings and Communication of the Visual Representations of Headloading in the 'Lazy Nigerian Youths' Facebook Conversation"

Nathan Chiroma

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article was eloquently written and articulated, making a significant contribution to the field of youth work and development. It aimed to dispel misconceptions about young people via social media and underscored their role in the economic growth of nations such as Nigeria. The article is acceptable in its current form but would benefit from an additional section suggesting practical methods for young people to realize their potential in spite of societal stigma and misconceptions.