Overall, the paper is well-written. However, the author should consider the following comments.

- (1) The abstract is not self-contained and it does not explain the main results of the paper.
- (2) the introduction part is too short and not clear. The author should elaborate on the abstract part.
- (3) Most of the references are from a single person (the author) and to improve the readability of the paper, the author should cite other relevant papers.
