

Review of: "Diversity and Inclusion for Innovation-Led Growth"

Shaheed Khan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Very well-articulated research work. Will provide a global access for citizens of the world to get a bird's eye-view about India and how the country is being led towards hundred years of Independence (2047). In a paragraph where reference has been made to NEP, inadvertently it has been stated as 2000, request the authors/researchers to change to 2020.

Besides, considering the fact that the paper will read globally, please articulate the concept of 'Amrit Kal' for a better understanding of the readers from other parts of the globe. A good to go article, publish the same immediately, as it is very relevant to the Indian Nation. Many Congratulations to the authors.