

Review of: "Responsible Geosciences, or Geoscience Literacy for Urbanites"

Goran Đurđević¹

¹ Beijing Foreign Studies University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is written in good and easy-reading style. The main idea is clear and coherent. Although the articles is challenging and useful, I would like to underline some issues:

1. Lack of theoretical framework: it is obvious that author put effort to present value and importance of topic, but it is still missing the bigger/major theoretical frameworks - maybe some of Morton's hyperobjects or Foucault's biopolitics.
2. More example: a case study of weather forecast is good, but it will be essential to add more and give more detailed explanations.

I definitely encourage author to do more research and improve a bit. My opinion is that the article is good and has potential to be better.