Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Recommendations are not included in the work. The Introduction chapter is the same as in the version before the first review.

The introduction contains detailed information about the topic and content of the paper and the purpose of the research but lacks explanation of the key terms (quality of life, social support, mental health, burnout, exhaustion) as an introduction before examples of previous research are presented in the introduction. In this way, the structure of the introduction would be coherent.

Recommendation: In the sample, specify the profile of the health professionals involved in the research (doctors, nurses, etc.).
