Dear Author,

Thank you for your work in clinical patient rehabilitation as well as in scientific research. Although this work has some significance, it is more of a work summary than a scientific study.

Firstly, the purpose and problems to be solved in this study are not clear. What kind of conclusion does the author want to get through this study? Secondly, this study only reported the recovery of balance in one patient, and there is a lack of comparative data, so it is difficult to support some data results.

It is recommended that the author better sort out the logic and purpose of the paper, and revise this research more clearly and rigorously.
