Dear Authors

This paper describes the comparison of differences in awareness of IPC between pharmacy and medical/dental students. It is needless to say anything about the importance of IPE; however, some concerns still remain.

1. Table 3 and Table 4 seem to be the same. I suppose either should be replaced with another one.
2. The tables are not statistically treated, so the readers cannot infer if there are significant differences between both groups. Additionally, sub-analyses along the attributes of Table 1 should be performed, and the results should also be described unless there are no significant differences.
