

Review of: "Determinants of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Sustainable Development in Africa"

Mzuyanda Christian¹

¹ University of Mpumalanga

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

TOPIC: The title is well written and achievable.

ABSTRACT: Suggestion is that the abstract should include significant p values of the regression model. Also indicate whether the relationship was positive or negative using coefficients as point of reference. It is not clear what the recommendations are in this section.

BACKGROUND AND PROBLEM STATEMENT: It captured all the needed concepts reflected in the research topic.

OBJECTIVES: the main aim of this paper was stated in the abstract

LITERATURE REVIEW: The authors managed to put together relevant and current literature. The theoretical framework needs to be detailed and well cited.

METHODS: The methodology chapter is fairly written. Is it not possible to have a clear explanation on how the data was gathered in these countries? It is also not clear how "sustainability" was measured.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION: The section is generally acceptable. However, the research could benefit from further interpretation of results. The authors need to explain what the results mean.

REFERENCES & STYLE: The appropriate referencing method should be strictly applied for consistency sake and journal requirements.

GENERAL COMMENT AND RECOMMENDATION: The authors demonstrated high level of mastery of the work. This piece of work can be published, after taking into consideration the comments made by all the reviewers