

Review of: "Young Builders vs. University of Delhi: A case of maintenance of balance between environment and development in housing development for the megacity of Delhi"

Binod Khadka

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The authors have included several information but still there is need of major revision in terms of proper presentation of obtained findings, proper flow of subject matter, categorizing different subject matter based on different section and sub-sections, etc.

1. There is also a need of modification of different subject matter included in different sections and sub-sections.
2. The abstract portion is lacking strong statement considering the novelty of the study.
3. Similarly, there are some structural errors (inappropriate lengthy sentence, grammatical errors, punctuation errors, etc) observed in some sentences. Please correct it.
4. The overall summarized output from the study can be presented through summarized table in comparison with past studies. This will help to increase the value of the study.
5. In conclusion portion, provide scope for further study, limitation of the study (if any).