

Review of: "Working on the Root System of Social Connections in a Community"

Craig Hobbs<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of Bolton

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

An excellent paper, setting out critical perspectives and comparative approaches to discovering ABCD concepts, processes, and contemporary issues, aims to advance community building practice and social capital. This highly recommended resource serves as a valuable learning aid, offering practical examples of 'well-rooted' evaluation methods, tools, and reflections - enabling multi-disciplinary practitioners, academics, and policymakers to gain transferable insights into modern associational life, social connections, and contexts.