This is a well-written review papers discussion the efficiency of natural herbal extracts in context to COVID-19 infection. In terms of the era of antibiotic limitation the natural extracts represent one of an important alternatives to antibiotics and other synthetic drugs. In context COVID-19 the potential effect of antiviral extracts may improve health conditions of people suffering SARS-CoV-2. In view of my expertise the paper may be accepted in its current form. Of course there is no 100 percent effective herbal treatment against COVID-19 what should be clearly mentioned.
