

Review of: "Diversity and Inclusion for Innovation-Led Growth"

Ana Ivenicki

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is interesting and provide important numerical data about India.

In order to be more rigorous from the academic point of view, I suggest that the author include definitions of diversity and inclusion, taking some recent articles and authors into account. Also, it should include some methodological considerations, including how diversity and inclusion have been considered in the Indian context, and suggestions as to how increase them.