The topic is highly relevant and the overall view can provide significant insights yet there are a few areas that need to be improved. On the one hand, there is a peak between 2008 and 2010 in the number of publications that has not been thoroughly addressed and explained as it is a trend that did not continue in years to follow. It would be interesting to link that with facts inside and outside of China. Additionally, the database of all papers analyzed should be linked/accessible.
