This article is clearly designed and expressed, with enriched spatial analysis. The policy implications are also useful. However, there are some problems to be further improved:

- 1 The data for the paper is described fairly well, but a table of statistical description concerning 98 Danish municipalities could be included in the part of Spatiality, Trends and Data.
- 2 It's better to indicate the specific modelling approach, like SAM-K/LINE model, in the abstract.
- 3 The paper mentioned in the part of literature review could be reorganized and renewed.
- 4 I'm not familiar with the SAM-K/LINE model. The description of this model seem simplistic.
- 5 The precision and accuracy of your expression could be improved.
