

Review of: "Perception of Biodiversity versus Connection to Nature: Which Can Influence Wildlife Product Consumption in Vietnam?"

Donald Mlambo¹

¹ National University of Science and Technology Bulawayo

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article addresses a very important issue in wildlife conservation. The conclusions are interesting. However, it may be more informative to provide a description of the study area, the kind of wildlife involved and the wildlife legislation in place to protect wildlife and its effectiveness. The study focused on urban residents but perception to biodiversity and connection to nature may vary between urban and non-urban residents. The title could be more informative if authors indicate that the study was conducted in an urban setting