

Review of: "A Study on the Design of Music Curriculum-Based Ecological Environment Convergence Education Program for Elementary School Learners"

Sare Asli¹

¹ Al-Qasemi Academic College of Education

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article talks about making a special program for kids that mixes music with learning about the environment. It's important because there are big problems with the environment right now, like climate change. The program wants to teach kids to care about nature while they learn music.

What's good about the article is that it takes ideas from different areas like education and the environment to make the program. It wants to help kids understand real-world problems and be ready to solve them when they grow up.

The article says that mixing environmental lessons with music can work well, and it gives some ideas for how to do it. But it could be even better if it showed more examples of what the program looks like in action. Overall, though, it's a helpful article for teachers and others who care about kids and the environment.