The paper has a complete structure and fluent language, and provides some cases to support the proposed viewpoints. At the same time, there are still some issues that need to be improved.

1. In the introduction, it is necessary to explain why there are different versions of the COM-B model, and introduce the background and purpose of their use.
2. In the section of "COM-B constructs", there are mostly reviews of the theory and commentary, and there is a lack of specific examples.
3. In the discussion section, it would be even better to supplement the advantages and disadvantages of different versions of COM-B in practical applications.
4. The paper mentions intervention in individual and group behaviors, but the discussion is not sufficient.
5. In the conclusion, some suggestions should be made for the future application areas of the models.
