

Review of: "Exchange Rate Pass-Through and Inflation on Unemployment in Nigeria"

Arzu Alvan Bozdereli

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

There is a lack of APA reference style in this study, and some references in the literature are not included under the heading of references. A conclusion consistent with the Philips curve logic is stated in the study. An explanation of the Philips curve is expected to be provided to the reader in the article. The purpose of the tests used in the study should be briefly explained. The purpose of the tests used in the study should be briefly explained. Under SVAR analysis, Granger causality tests and Cholesky decompositions (which order the variables based on economic theory to establish their causal relationship) may also be applied.